At last week's Board of Trustees meeting, MSC President Donald Walters discussed possible actions that may be taken against former SummerFun producer Scott MacConnell if he does not return the program's money by next month.

Task Force report cites progress on the various minority programs

By Ade Idera

The President's Task Force report on the evaluation and recommendations on recruitment and retention of Black and Hispanic students was discussed at the first meeting of the Presidents Commission on Affirmative Action held last week.

"The report submitted to President Walters last June, is made up of three parts," said Dr. Curtis Jackson, chairperson of the Task Force. "Part one includes an overall summary and major recommendations." He further said that parts two and three provide a report and recommendations on recruitment, admission and retention of Black and Hispanic students.

According to the report, MSC has made progress over the years primarily through the vehicle of special programs such as: the Educational Opportunity Fund (EOF), the Special Tutorial Program (STP), the Health Careers Program (HCP) and the Weekend College (WEC). These special programs, while limited to a small segment of the student body, provide opportunity and access to students from minority and/or disadvantaged backgrounds. It reaffirms the most significant contribution of these programs which has been to help students who enter college with severe educational and financial limitations due to inadequate schooling and preparation, to succeed in obtaining a college education. The report urged for more support for these special programs.

MacConnell must return money or face possible dismissal

By Warren Thomas

Scott MacConnell, the SummerFun producer who was suspended for taking $75,000 worth of SummerFun ticket receipts and property, has until early October to make full restitution to the college or further disciplinary action will be taken, according to MSC President Donald Walters at last week's Board of Trustees meeting.

Walters reviewed the events that culminated in the suspension of MacConnell, who was also a professor in the speech and theatre department, as well as SummerFun producer for 14 years. Walters informed the Board that MacConnell, after announcing that SummerFun would no longer be held at MSC because of artistic interference by the college, had removed $75,000 from the campus SummerFun account and into a bank somewhere in New Jersey, as well as taking the master copy of the mailing list and other equipment.

At a meeting on August 26 with Roland Garrett, vice president of administration, and MSC attorney Bill Haller, MacConnell admitted to taking the money and placing it in a new SummerFun account, as well as removing equipment and the mailing list. MacConnell also stated at that time that the name SummerFun was not under the college's auspices and could be used by him elsewhere if he chose to.

The administration then called upon MacConnell to make a full restitution of all the money and property as well as an agreement not to use the SummerFun name in the future.

Although refusing to meet these demands, MacConnell did offer to return the funds on the condition that the account would be jointly controlled by an unspecified representative of SummerFun and the administration.

Declaring this condition unacceptable, MSC then filed charges against MacConnell based on his own admission that he deprived the college of its property and money. At that time, MacConnell was suspended with pay and informed that demotion, and ultimately dismissal, would be the next punitive actions taken if the matter was not resolved.

Walters said that the administration's proposal of an informal meeting between the two sides was not able to take place because MSC refused to assent to MacConnell's condition that a court stenographer be present. MSC felt that a stenographer would change

New tailgating guidelines

New policies for tailgate parties will be put into effect at this weekend's football game against Kean College.

The following guidelines were decided upon yesterday by Dr. Edward Martin, dean of students, SGA President Dave Handal, members of the athletic department and John Connolly, Editor-in-Chief of The Montclarion.

— Tailgating parties will be allowed only in parking lots 7 and 9 from 6 to 7:40 p.m., when tailgaters will be instructed to go into the game. Kick-off time is 8 p.m.

— No tailgating will be permitted once the game starts, at half-time or at the end of the game.

— No kegs or bottles will be permitted at the parties.

Violators of the new regulations may be subject to fines or in extreme cases, arrest.

"Basically, the decision that we made permitting tailgating was related to the social aspect of people having a picnic, meeting friends and having a good time," Martin said. He also hopes people will not use it as just a place to drink.

Also, Martin would like to remind students that it's illegal for people under 21 to drink alcoholic beverages.

To help combat the large amount of garbage that can accumulate at tailgate parties, more garbage cans will be placed in both lots 7 and 9.

"Our attempt to alleviate the abolishment of tailgating, while negotiating with the administration, resulted in these new policies," Handal said. "My hope is that the student body adheres to these guidelines to show the administration that we are mature and capable of promoting responsible tailgating."

Martin added, "I'm very pleased with the help the administration is receiving from the student government and press in working to alleviate a possibly dangerous situation."

Organization banners

The athletic department allows organizations to hang their banner inside Sprague Field if they do so by 7:30 p.m. Banners can be hung on the fences on the field, except in the end zone nearest Normal Ave. and provided they do not block any of the yardage numbers. Also, banners may be hung along the fence along the top of the bleachers.

President Donald Walters

Walters states progress and challenges

By George W. Peterson Jr.

"I have a very positive feeling about the faculty and college. It's a privilege to be President and the good things I'd heard about the college are still true. I'm impressed by the quality of the student body."

These were some of the opening remarks made by MSC President Donald E. Walters during his address to the annual fall meeting of faculty and non-teaching professionals on Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Walters began by pointing out that MSC has made some significant progress in the past year. Two new certificate programs have been established, as well as several new degree programs (both baccalaureate and graduate). The current overhaul of the graduate studies program will eventually result in the establishment of new standards, guidelines and curriculum.

"However," Walters said, "there are also some serious challenges" for the college to face. Foremost among these is a deficit of $1 million in salary money and a half-million in non-salary areas. Walters said that in the future his administration would continue to address the deficit in two ways: adding to salary money from such sources as tuition, fees, grants and other areas and from attrition. Walters said that most positions have been or will be filled, but that a small percentage (about 19 positions) would be eliminated.

Walters announced a new program for faculty retraining. He said that the new program will work by inviting faculty to teach in high need departments, mainly during the summer.

Walters outlined a plan to bring the campus together in a "Day of Retreat" on October 24. This would be a symposium dealing with a few studies that attacked institutions of higher learning for being too lax. Walters said that classes may be cancelled and 50 students would be invited to attend.

In hopes of ridding this negative view, Walters said that he has committed funds to hire outside marketing consultants to find ways to help improve and advertise MSC's image. They will also help the college set up a viable fundraising program.

Finally, Walters discussed the Challenge Grants, provided to the state colleges by the state of N.J. Each college has made a proposal to a three-person panel consisting of Albert Bowker, executive vice president at the University of Maryland, Dr. Bernard Harleston, president of CUNY, and Dr. Martha Church, president of Hood College.

After reviewing the proposals, the panel has recommended that these colleges receive their grants in the following order: Jersey City, Kean, MSC, Trenton, Edison and Stockton. Ramapo, William Paterson and Glassboro were all turned down.

However, since there is only $10 million available, Chancellor of Higher Education T. Edward Hollander has proposed that all of the available money be given to the first two proposals. According to Walters, this decision was not final and it was possible that more money would become available. He said MSC might get at least part of the $2.8 million it has been allocated.

Car thefts and vandalism are a recurring problem

By Vivette Watson

The problem of car thefts and vandalism continued as three cars were stolen and five others vandalized last week.

CAMPUS POLICE REPORT Thieves stole an '85 Oldsmobile, valued at $15,000, from lot 21 between 9 p.m. on Sat., Sept. 14 and 12:30 p.m., thieves stole a '79 Chevy in lot 24. The car and its contents is valued at $5,300.

A '77 Chevy worth $2,500, was stolen from lot 28 between 1 p.m. on Mon., Sept. 9 and 12:30 p.m. on Tues., Sept. 10.

On Sept. 15, thieves entered an '85 Pontiac in lot 21 and stole a radar detector and a jacket both valued at $430. The steering column was also broken. In lot 23, vandals entered a '79 Buick and damaged the steering column. There was no sign of forced entry.

On Sept. 12, between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m., the owner of an '85 Camaro returned to his car in lot 13 to find the left rear tire and rim stolen. The right front tire was also cut and flattened.

In a similar incident on Sept. 14, vandals damaged the steering column and passenger door of an '82 Trans Am in lot 23. On Sept. 15, the owner of a '79 Oldsmobile returned to his car in lot 21 to find both doors unlocked and the steering column damaged.

On Wed., Sept. 11, a 12-speed Peugeot bicycle, worth $250, was stolen from the bike rack outside the Student Center. On, Fri., Sept. 13, a bicycle, taken from the Bohn Hall bike rack, was later recovered at the Freeman Hall bike rack.

On Sept. 11, thieves stole a $700 blower, from the Clove Road Apt. storage shed.

On Sept. 13 a $650 typewriter was reported stolen from Russ Hall. On the same day at 12:45 p.m., a theft was reported in Richardson Hall. A male working in the lab left his book bag unattended, only to return and find his wallet missing. Total value of the wallet and its contents is $200.

On Sept., 10, a bike, parked outside the Student Center, smashed through the window when someone opened the door. Damage to the window is valued at $312.

An assault was reported at 12:47 a.m. on Sept. 15. Three men physically and verbally attacked three male students, who were walking in the area between Bohn and Blanton Halls. Campus police have no suspects.

Also on Sept. 15, a group of males attempted to enter a second floor room in Webster Hall by climbing up a ledge. The female resident heard noises and screamed. The trespassers then fled.

On Sept. 14 at 10:45 p.m., a male used a fake dorm I.D. card to enter Blanton Hall. Campus police escorted him off campus. Trespassers were also reported in Freeman Hall and Blanton Hall on Sept. 12.

On Sept. 9, campus police found a grey-red knapsack filled with clothes behind Blanton Hall. The knapsack is being held at the police station for identification.

PTB program to provide tuition funds for students

By Terry Rehm

The state of New Jersey has again funded the Public Tuition Benefit Program (PTB) for the 1985-86 academic year, according to Dr. Randall Richards, director of financial aid.

According to a statement released by Richards, the PTB program entitles the children and spouses of certain workers for municipal, county or New Jersey state governments, who have died in the line of duty, to free tuition at New Jersey State Colleges. More specifically, the PTB applies to those students whose deceased parent or spouse was a member or officer of a Volunteer Fire Company, Volunteer First Aid or Rescue Squad, Municipal Fire and Police, County Police or Park Police Department.

Also, if they were a member of the State Fire Service or the Division of State Police, State Investigator, Correction Officer, Marine Law Enforcement Officer, Prosecutor's Detective or Investigator, Court Attendant and Sheriff's Officer, Narcotics Officer, Enforcement and Regulation of Weights and Measures Officer, or Civil Defense or Disaster Control Worker.

High school seniors and students presently enrolled in college may still file a PTB application for the 1985-86 year. The eligible child or surviving spouse should be "in academically good standing," and must be enrolled as an undergraduate student. These benefits do not apply to those who possess a baccalaureate degree, but rather to undergraduates alone.

The free tuition benefits are available to the child up to eight years after high school graduation, and for eight years after the member's death in the case of the surviving spouse. In both cases, however, this program gives four tuition-free years at any New Jersey state college.

Richards said that if the surviving child or spouse is planning to attend a private institution in New Jersey, benefits are also given under the PTB program. However, the eligible student will only receive funds equal to the tuition at Rutgers University, the most expensive of the New Jersey State colleges. It would then be the responsibility of the student to make up any difference in the cost.

This program was adopted in 1980 in respect for those who died while serving their local, county and state governments. According to Richards, the PTB program was formed "in hopes of giving recognition of duty to those workers, and to compensate their families, if at all possible." In the past three years at MSC, there have been 13 students under the PTB program.

Applications for the PTB program are now available in the Financial Aid Office, Room 321 of College Hall. Completed applications should be submitted by October 1 to the Department of Higher Education, Office of Assistance in Trenton.

Child care is still a problem at MSC

By Lisa Nelson

The possibility of setting up some kind of child care program at MSC was the topic of discussion at a meeting sponsored by the Women's Center last week.

During the meeting, a group, lead by two MSC students, Jacqueline Rubino and Cheryl Otto, stated several reasons for day care at MSC.

First, it will give parents a chance to continue their education and at the same time enable them to spend more time with their children.

Child care would also provide a sense of community, and provide more jobs to work-study students. Also, the group agreed that the college should be a leader in day care programs because it needs to compete with the services other colleges offer for parents. Lastly, a child care program would benefit MSC's reputation.

If the program cannot be state funded, it will be self-supporting. Attempts will be made to gain money by fund raising, through the SGA, and sliding fees.

Dr. Jean M. Armstrong, vice president for student affairs, said "Child care has been a problem for five years. I am now still chagrined."

In the past, there have been several attempts by the Women's Center to form a child care program, but all attempts have failed. Past MSC administrations were negative to the idea of a child care program.

Professor Huberta Alcaro, director of the Women's Center, said "The college did not want to give any money, space, or time to a child care program."

The main goal of the discussion was to mobilize mass support for daycare and to form committees to work on petitions, letters to the administration and a budget plan. In addition, the Needs Assessment Survey, which estimates the number of people who need child care, will be updated. Future meetings will be posted in the Women's Center, and all interested persons are welcome to attend.

SGA committee begins work on rectifying problems in dorms

By Terry Rehm

SGA President Dave Handal, announced the new policy concerning tailgating at football games at last night's meeting. Handal attended a meeting on Wednesday, September 25, along with Dr. Edward Martin, dean of students, and administrators of the athletic department to discuss the new policy. Handal claims, "If we go by these new rules, we'll be in good shape." Details on the policy and the meeting can be found on page one.

The Welfare and Internal Affairs Committee is currently investigating problems on campus. They are attempting to rectify problems such as broken lamps in the dorms, lack of garbage cans, and any other items that need to be repaired or painted.

Committee Chairman Gary Takvorian said, "Anything physical we investigate." He urges all students to bring any complaints to the SGA office, Room 103 in the Student Center.

Takvorian said they are now concentrating on the dorm problems. The committee urges students to stay involved with their own affairs, and to not permit the administration to take advantage of student's apathy, which Takvorian says, "the administration is thriving on."

Task Force report

Recommendations were also made on areas of staffing, marketing admission policies and programmatic support for retention. On staffing, the Task Force identified the following needs: Special Assistant in the President's office to coordinate the overall program of recruitment and retention of Black and Hispanic students; institutional research support to provide information and data on all students by sex and ethnicity; and additional staff in the Admissions Office to handle minority recruitment.

The Task Force recommendations also include the development of a strong marketing program directed specifically to Black and Hispanic students. It further recommended that the marketing effort be integrated into the college's general marketing program which currently is under review.

It is believed that the findings and recommendations presented in this report can serve to provide the foundations for action, change, continued research and review of the problem of Secretary Pam Gorski, announced many of the SGA services for MSC students. There is a pharmacy program in which MSC undergraduates may have prescriptions filled for $3.25 each. Prescriptions should be brought to the SGA office, and those in by 10 a.m. will be out by 3 p.m.

The Board of Transportation Affairs aids students who feel they have unjustly received parking tickets, and may even have them rescinded, if there is good reason.

Every Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the SGA office, a lawyer offers free counsel to MSC students. Also available in the office are stamps and a copy machine at a rate of 5 cents per copy.

The SGA now has a phone service in Room 112 of the Student Center. Students may place long distance call in the 609, 212, 718, 215, and 202 area codes. A directory will soon be printed by the SGA containing the names, home addresses, and phone numbers of all MSC students. Entry in the directory is optional.

The SGA voted to grant $695 each to two separate groups of RA's who are planning trips to Boston and Washington. The Boston trip will be on Oct. 19 and the Washington trip on Oct. 26. The cost will be $7 per student and further information on both trips will be available next week.

declining enrollment of Black and Hispanic undergrads in New Jersey colleges and universities. However, the Task Force acknowledges the possible limitations of its report due to overall magnitude of the problem, scarcity of documented material and records, and the extremely short time allotted to research and preparations.

In other matters, an ad hoc committee has been set up to review the constitution and size of the Commission on Affirmative Action. Describing the Commission as too large, President Walters suggested it could be cut down. Dr. Joan Schleede will head the six-member ad hoc committee.

Dr. Roland Garret, vice president for academic affairs, reported 16 new faculty hires for fall 1985. Four of the faculty are temporary, while 12 are permanent. He stated that out of the 16 people hired, eight are women and three are minorities.

"The total number for Fall 1985 is a reduction to the previous year, which was about 25," Garret said. He attributed the reduction to budgetary limitations.

MSC student wins art show award

In her first contest, Marie G. Rubino, an MSC art major, won first place in the category of sculpture at "The Art Show" in the Montclair Arena on September 22.

The show, sponsored by the Recreational and Cultural Affairs Advisory Committee and the Montclair Parks and Recreational Department, featured 70 exhibitors. The renowned painter, Tom Vincent, the director of the Montclair Art Museum, Robert Koenig and an accomplished sculptor, Alicia Rahm, were the judges.

Montclarion Note

In last week's article, "College refund," Wendy Schultz was misquoted. If an SGA fee increase were to occur, a majority of the 20 percent vote would have to be in favor of it, not simply the 20 percent vote alone.

Ham operators to form club

By Drita Ftera

A new amateur radio club is organizing on campus headed by Bob Deyo, an MSC junior. A recent transfer student, Deyo was president of Morris County College's amateur or "ham" radio station last year.

MSC's last ham radio club dissolved two years ago, but its equipment is still in storage. Deyo would like to put this equipment to work.

Although MSC has a commercial, local radio station, WMSC, a ham radio club would have no connection to it. According to the FCC rules, ham stations are not allowed advertising and cannot broadcast to the general public.

Ham stations usually broadcast to other ham stations in specific locations. Though ham broadcasts can be picked up on commercial radio, they do not broadcast for that purpose.

"Ham radio provides emergency communication and promotes good will. It provides worldwide communications, as well as local," states Deyo. A major purpose of ham radio is to alert people of everything from a disaster to traffic jams. Ham operators can also broadcast to many foreign countries.

Third party communications to North and South America are provided by ham operators. This consists of one station contacting another in an area or town where someone is sought. The second station can then locate and dial the local number of the person. Deyo also pointed out that ham radio operators were the first Americans to contact Mexico City after the recent earthquakes.

According to Deyo, the club would probably be a Class II organization and no dues will be charged. FCC rules do not allow ham stations to charge for services.

Deyo invites FCC licensed students to join, but all students are welcome. A license is not necessary to use the equipment, as long as another licensed person is present during broadcasts. Deyo is interested in having a faculty or staff advisor.

Students interested in joining MSC's new ham station can call Bob at (201)361-2573.

Scientist regards Darwin theory as incorrect

By Eve Marlowe

Regarding Darwin's theory on embryology as incorrect, Dr. Gerald M. Edelman of Rockefeller University presented his alternative theory at the first lecture of the Second Annual Nobel Laureate Series sponsored by the math and computer science department.

At the lecture, entitled "The New Embryology: Molecules and Mechanisms Determining Embryonic Form," Edelman explained why his research has led him to believe that Darwin's theory is wrong. He explained that during embryology the molecules of the cells link up to amino acids and different proteins to form a chain similar to a leggo construction. According to Darwin's theory of "pre-determined molecular address," the molecules know exactly where to go.

One of Edelman's reasons for defying this theory is because, he says, there are 10 billion neurons in the cortex of the brain with about a million connections. If Darwin's theory were true, Edelman says, "We would need a telephone book worth of addresses which is just too many." Thus, this pre-determined route of molecules is impossible.

In his alternative theory, Edelman says the protein molecules are linked by a specific "glue." He explained the term glue as a certain type of neural cell or adhesion molecule known as a "cam." Although he has named only two such cams, Edelman said he knows several more exist.

Edelman suggested that these glues follow certain rules which some mathematicians call "recursive application." Although these rules are followed, often the path of these glues can be blind and undirected.

Through experimentation, Edelman said he and his colleagues have discovered that if the glue can be changed, then so can the shape of the cell. This idea, Edelman hopes will help in preventing birth defects and terminating or even regulating cancer cells.

"Darwin didn't have the answer," he said. But today we are coming closer to it through these amazing breakthroughs."

"The scientist is the servant of the inevitable," Edelman said. "You must fight for a theory whether it is right or wrong, and then test it out in society."

For his work, Edelman has received several prizes, honorary degrees and the Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine in 1972. His theory on embryology appeared in an article in the April, 1984 issue of The Scientific American.

Board reviews MacConnell case

the nature of the meeting into a more formal affair.

Walters revealed that since then his administration has made continuing efforts to meet with MacConnell informally.

He also said that he would be willing to make a full re-evaluation of the case if MacConnell made a full and immediate restitution to the college.

After outlining all these events to the Board, Walters then announced that he had decided "to adopt a wait-and-see approach" for the time being instead of recommending any additional disciplinary actions.

"I have deliberately decided not to make any recommendations at the present time in the hope that we can have some fruitful dialogue with Mr. MacConnell," Walters said. "My hope is that in the next few days or weeks, by holding back judgement and the rush to disciplinary action, as well as my refusal to escalate, we can reach some agreement."

Nonetheless, Walters stated that eventually some action will have to be taken if the impasse is not broken. "It's important we set a time in early October at which point I will have to be prepared to make recommendations on the MacConnell case," Walters said.

Walters expressed his concern over the negative effects the MacConnell controversy has had on MSC saying, "there's a lot at stake here, not only for the administration and Mr. MacConnell, but for the whole campus.

These situations always are divisive but I plan to use my office to decrease it as much as possible. I cannot wait forever though."

The Board agreed to Walter's suggestion for an October 4th meeting to take action on the MacConnell case if no agreement has been made by then.

86 budget proposed

Walters then presented the administration's proposed budget for fiscal year 1986. Thirty six million of the overall $59 million budget will come from State Operating Funds, which supplies money to N.J. state colleges, $5 million from other state funds, and $18 million from non-state funds such as tuition.

In compliance with the state's new "75/25" policy in which no more than 75% of state funds may be allocated for salaries, $26 million, or approximately 72%, will be spent on salaries. And $9.3 million will go for non-salary expenses.

Walters noted that MSC started out the last fiscal year with a $1.5 million deficit thus requiring a hiring freeze on all open positions. This year, the freeze will be eased considerably as five out of every six new positions will be filled. While announcing that this year's eight percent increase in tuition generated $845,000 in additional revenue to help decrease the deficit, Walters added that next year's tuition would be raised by $2 a credit to wipe out MSC's deficit entirely.

Air safety questionable

Flying in an airplane is safer than riding in a car.

While this statement may have been true in the past, it certainly isn't accurate in 1985. This year, there have been over 15 air accidents worldwide. With more than 1,500 casualties, these figures make 1985 the most lethal air travel year in history.

In February, an Iberian plane crashed into a mountain in Spain, killing everyone aboard. In June, an Air India 747 disintegrated in midair off the coast of Ireland. All of the 326 passengers died.

However, the death toll was highest during August. On Aug. 2, a Delta Air Line flight fell just short of the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport runway and all of 134 occupants were killed. Later in the month, a JAL Boeing 747 lost a tail fin and smashed into a mountain in Japan, killing 520 people. A few days later a British Airtours' 737 engine exploded, killing 54 passengers.

During August, many people go on vacation. To compensate, the large airlines cram on as many passengers per flight as possible. But are the economics overriding safety?

A case in point is the JAL Boeing 747. Nicknamed "Fat Albert," it is one of the largest planes ever built. It is considered to be a safe airline. However, how could a single plane carrying 600 passengers be considered safe? Any plane with a seating capacity that high puts too many lives in danger in the event it crashes, as the JAL 747 did with a death toll of 520.

The British Airtours' 737 was another offender. Previous to the crash, the first-class section of the jet had been removed to accommodate for 15 more passengers. Examinations of the burned wreckage showed that cramped leg space made it difficult for those on board to escape. Many of the dead were found trying to claw their way to the exits.

Pratt and Whitney, the manufacturers of the engine that exploded and caused the 737 accident, are being investigated. Since the crash, two more of their engines have malfunctioned causing accidents. But this company can't be the only one to blame.

It must be more than a fluke that so many planes have crashed this year. It is highly possible that they aren't safe. But this shouldn't have to be the case.

More presidents of airline companies should take their cue from Yasumoto Takagi, president of JAL. He took full responsibility for his air tragedy and resigned his position. While resigning your position is a noble gesture, it doesn't bring back the dead.

The high-ups seem very interested in making money, but it's about time they start shelling out some of that cash on more than just friendly smiles and coffee. They should invest in the safety of the planes by having vigorous periodical testing on ALL planes. If the companies don't (as past history seems to indicate), the government should force them to do so. How long can we continue to planes fall out of the sky like tin cans in a shooting gallery?

Laso: not for Latins only

By Barbara Pennisi, LASO vice-president

When I first heard about LASO (Latin American Student Organization, Class I of the SGA) from my (Latin) friends, I thought only students of Latin descent belonged to this organization. I soon found out differently!

As I started visiting the office and attending LASO events, I became more interested in LASO. I attended membership meetings, helped with the programming and publicity. As I assisted with more and more activities, I was gaining valuable insight into how the organization really functions and also was having a great time socializing. I enjoyed LASO so much that I wanted to do more.

The opportunity came with the Executive Board elections last May. I was nominated and elected vice-president!! I couldn't believe it! An Italian, who speaks very little Spanish was the new vice-president of LASO. I am very happy to have this opportunity to further express LASO's philosophy that "LASO is not only for Latins."

Joining LASO is an excellent opportunity for a student taking Spanish classes to reinforce what is being taught in class in a relaxed atmosphere. LASO's activities are usually centered around Latin programming to create an awareness and understanding of the Latin culture throughout the college community.

Some events for this October include a clothes drive starting Oct. 1 and ending Oct. 29. We are also scheduling a lecture for Oct. 16 and a Halloween party on Oct. 25 in the Rat.

One of LASO's most successful and popular events is Latin Week. Held every spring, LASO takes this time to educate the college campus about Latin culture. Every Latin Week, we center our events around a different theme. During our last Latin Week, the theme was La Familia Latina (the Latin Family).

The weeklong festivities started with a concert by Aldo Matta and Orchestra on Sunday. The next day a luncheon was given for all the members, administrators, and faculty. We had a Latin American art exhibition with the artist explaining her technique. Our seminars were "Success and the Path to a Law Career: The Importance of a Supportive Family," "The Impact of the Dual Career Couple on the Family Unit." Also included were two seminars with political overtones, a debate on U.S. foreign policy in Central America and Isabel Allende, a best-selling Chilean novelist.

We also had a theatrical presentation by RASGOS, and a Latin American food sampling table set up by Goya foods in the Student Center Mall. To complete the week, LASO had a huge party at the Rat with a live Latin band "Sabor Tropical."

During Latin Week, LASO always has hundreds of helium balloons and many buttons and T-shirts worn by everyone. These items are designed with a logo depicting the Latin Week theme in LASO's colors of red and yellow. Our Latin Week Chairperson, who is also a non-Latin member, and his committee are eagerly planning for our Latin Week this spring. Anyone interested in joining this committee can stop by the LASO office. Our first meeting is Oct. 8.

Everyone at LASO hopes that all our activities will be as rewarding to you as they are to us. Come let us share and appreciate each other's culture. All cultures are beautiful manifestations of people's heritage, values, and beliefs. It is to everyone's benefit because by doing so, we will help foster open minds, open hearts and thereby become a more cultured, educated people.

Sometimes we just get together as a group and have a good time as we did for the first football game. We brought our banner to promote school spirit and cheer our team on! With LASO you always have a place to go to relax between classes. Everyone is invited to attend our Leadership Orientation Sunday Sept. 29 at 12 noon and an evening party at the Panzer poolside.

So stop by and visit us in Room 100 in the Student Center Annex or call 893-4440 and experience the richness of the Latin culture and all the fun you can have. Remember LASO is not only for Latins. We have a feeling for everyone because an organization is only as strong as its members.

A Spanish phrase I learned says it well, "En La Unidad Esta La Fuerza" in other words, "In Unity there is Strength".

Student commends crackdown on parking violaters on campus

To the editor:

After reading last week's letter to the editor from the student complaining about the unfairness of being towed off the campus, I was enraged. According to this student, she was "blocking neither a parked car or moving traffic". She did "however, park on some yellow lines." Maybe I am misinformed, but I had always thought that parking on yellow lines was illegal? Blocking cars or not, it is still illegal! And as for being towed off of the campus, she should have thought about that before she parked on those yellow lines.

The problem of cars parked illegally is especially bad in lot #13. Students seem to feel that having a parking sticker on their car gives them carte blanche to park wherever they can fit their cars. The rows of cars in lot #13 get extended so far from people adding their own spaces, it is almost virtually impossible to pass through either to get into or out of the lot. The problem is even more acerbated if a car is trying to get through from the other side, because the right-of-way is blocked.

This is uncalled for. There is always parking at MSC. I have attended this school for three and a half years, and I have never had to park off-campus due to a lack of parking spaces. Believe it or not, there are other lots besides lot #13 and the top of the quarry. As for convenience, this student should be intelligent enough to realize that in a college this size, given the number of students who attend, it would be impossible to have "front row" parking for everyone.

In reference to the additional $10.00 that students now have to pay for parking, I was disgusted when I learned of it. But since this semester began I have seen many attendants walking around ticketing cars.

Finally, the college is doing something about the illegal parking, which, as this particular student has found out, is an inconvenience to those who obey the law, as well as to those who park illegally and inconsiderately. I heartily applaud those responsible for the crackdown on illegal parking.

Holl cartoon offends fraternity

To the Editor:

We, the members of Tau Kappa Epsilon (TEKE) fraternity strongly resent the depiction of fraternities as a place to get drunk and have sex as was stated in the comic strip "Harold Hall". Obviously, the "cartoonist", Albert Holl, is not aware of what a real fraternity is about.

Sure there are parties; however, there is also much more. TEKE has sponsored charity events with Z-100 FM to raise funds for the station's "WISH" charity. On Oct. 2 we will be playing WNEW FM in a charity softball game to benefit the Susan Arms' Foundation (Susan is a MSC student who has been stricken with a debilitating disease).

Not only is TEKE involved in philanthropic events, but, we also enable men to develop organizational and leadership skills which they may not otherwise be able to acquire. We are NOT A BEER CLUB.

Perhaps Mr. Holl needs more of an education about fraternities. Let's look at some facts about these organizations in general.

A man who belongs to a fraternity has a 10% better chance of graduating than a non-fraternity man. This is based on information obtained from a nationwide study of fraternity members.

Studies show that 52% of our nation's senators, 70% of the key executives, and 71% of the men listed in "Who's Who in America" are fraternity men. TEKE is also proud to boast that President Ronald W. Reagan is a member of our fraternity. Not an honorary member, but a fully initiated frater in the bond of Tau Kappa Epsilon. Surely he saw the value of fraternities and knew the benefits that are afforded a man.

Have you learned anything yet, Mr. Holl? Let's hope so. If you haven't, or you would like to learn more, we would be more than happy to help you understand that real fraternities are not like those portrayed in "Animal House" and other movies. We realize that Mr. Holl is not alone in his misconception of fraternity life, but feel that he should be responsible enough not to insult a student group.

The Members of Tau Kappa Epsilon

Basketball courts irk student

To the editor:

On Sept. 10, I received a ticket from the MSC campus police for not parking between the lines and for impeding the flow of traffic in the quarry parking lot. I have not appealed this ticket and I do intend to pay the fine because I was wrong.

However, I feel that something should be said about the parking situation on campus this year. As always, there is a problem, but I believe that this year has been the worst.

I am sure that the basketball courts that now sit in the quarry parking lot were a worthwhile decision and will spark new excitement and interest among some students, but what about the commuter? With the parking problem well known to all who attend MSC, I speak for many when I say a better location for these courts could be found.

I feel the Clove Road parking lot, which isn't used as much by commuters, is a more suitable place for these courts. If the college is unable to supply a sufficient amount of valid parking, then a limited number of commuters should be allowed to attend the college.

Greeks respond to Montclarion

To the editor:

I am writing this on behalf of the Greek Council in reference to two articles that were published in last week's edition of The Montclarion. The articles I am referring to consist of Connolly's Corner and the Harold Hall cartoon. I found both of these to be in very poor taste.

First we will deal with Connolly's Corner. The article implied that the Phi Alpha Psi Senate Fraternity was not promoting school spirit at the first home football game. It is true that Senate hung their banner out in the tailgate parking lot, but whether you care to admit it or not, tailgating is a form of school spirit.

The entire fraternity did not stay out in the parking lot to drink during the game. There were approximately ten guys (not all fraternity members) that chose to stay outside during the entire game who were partying by the Senate Banner. So instead of directing the negative innuendo to Senate, maybe John should have directed it to all of the people who chose to stay outside.

I will agree to the fact that people must clean up after themselves, but in this instance I feel that the administration must share the blame for the mess that resulted from this game. Prior to the game, Dave Handal, president of the SGA, requested that 30 garbage cans be distributed throughout the tailgate parking lot. As a result of this request, four garbage cans were there. Senate fraternity and some of the other Greeks that were present stayed to sweep the parking lot. We asked four different police officers for brooms and cleaning materials. As a result of this request, we were laughed at. So, it is pretty obvious that the administration did not take the proper steps in preparing for the aftermath of the first home game.

Secondly, the Harold Hall cartoon featuring "BLEKE" fraternity was very unnecessary. This article was obviously a takeoff on Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, better known as TEKE.

The cartoon suggested that all this fraternity did was drink and have sex whenever possible. Well, I would advise Albert Holl to find out more about what he is writing before making his obviously uneducated opinion known.

TEKE fraternity has recently sponsored free movies for anyone on campus, they have sponsored free pizza parties and they are providing the security for our Homecoming along with Senate. And these are only some of the activities that this fraternity has recently done.

The Greek Life at MSC is a growing force. We are one of the biggest organizations on this campus - second only to the SGA. Because of our large membership, we can do many positive things on this campus. So whether we are tailgating or running security for an event, we are always promoting school spirit.

I would like to direct my next comment to John Connolly — If anyone feels that any Greek organization on this campus is not promoting school spirit, it would be more effective to approach that group at that time and deal with the problem immediately.

The Greeks on this campus support the fact that we should attend the game and hang our banners up, and in the future this will happen. After all, that is why we are there. By publishing these two articles without the proper information, we feel that The Montclarion exercised unprofessional journalism. By doing this they added another obstacle in the path to promoting the theory of students serving students, which is the basic idea of the Greek Council.

I am not writing this letter to be disrespectful to The Montclarion. My sole purpose is to get the facts straight. If anyone has any questions regarding anything stated in this letter, the Greek Council Office is in the Student Center room 112D.

Lone Justice rocks the Ritz with a vibrant blend of styles

By Bill Normyle

Many people may not have heard of Lone Justice, yet they are a great band that is just about to break. All of the elements are there: they have already completed one national tour and an opening act for U2 and their video for "Ways to be Wicked" has already received considerable airplay on MTV. In addition, they have also received a heavy dose of critical and college radio attention and have just now performed at the Ritz.

Lone Justice's combination of folk, country, gospel and rock styles has made the group a favorite attraction on the L.A. club circuit. This has brought them to the attention of Tom Petty and Little Steven, both of whom wrote original songs for the group's debut album, Self-Titled (Geffen). The band's show at the Ritz went even further to publicize the group's uniquely American sound.

The group is fronted by 20-year-old Maria McKee, whose voice is reminiscent of the early Linda Ronstadt. McKee resembles the girl next door, but no mistaking it, she is one whirling dervish on stage who really knows how to sing. During the band's hour set, she sang, whooped and danced the trendy, urban Ritz into an old-fashioned country hoedown.

The band chose to open the Ritz show with their most gospel-flavored song, "You are the Light." The title and sound of this song had a definite spiritual flavor, yet the song had no direct religious references. It might have been interpreted as having a "whatever gets you through the night" attitude. Instrumentally, the song was stark in tone. The band's light accompaniment highlighted McKee's haunting vocals.

The rest of the set was comprised mainly of material culled from their debut album. Particular crowd favorites included "Ways to be Wicked," Steve Van Zandt's "Sweet, Sweet Baby (I'm Falling)" and the rockin' "Wait Till We Get Home." My own particular favorite was an electrifying song entitled "After the Flood." The band's set also included two great covers: C.C.R.'s "Run through the Jungle" and Janis Joplin's "Cry Baby."

Yes, Lone Justice did appear to be a band ready to make it big, but as I left the Ritz I could not help but wonder if in an age of Madonna clones there is really much of a market for such a band. Fortunately, I think there is. As long as there is an American musical tradition which includes Guthrie, Dylan, Young, Fogerty and Springsteen, I think this group will have an audience. For those who are fans of this great tradition, all hail the latest addition — Lone Justice.

Squeeze returns with old lineup and new formula

By Jim Nicosia

Two things have occurred with the release of Squeeze's latest album, Cosi Fan Tutti Frutti. One is the reformation of the original band lineup (except for their new bassist). The other result is quite unexpected, especially considering the 99%-pure Squeeze constituency: a departure from the typical Squeeze pop formula.

Cosi Fan Tutti Frutti, the band's sixth album, is infused with funk, new wave and even reggae. We also find Difford and Tilbrook trying new things which do, for the most part, work.

Cosi Fan Tutti Frutti comes complete with state-of-the-art technology, overdubs and Trevor Horn-type horns! Yes, we're finding that Squeeze is getting a bit artsy as well.

There are no pop hits like "Pulling Mussels (From a Shell)" or "Tempted" on this album. Instead, "Big Beng" opens things up with the Wilkinson and Lavis rhythm section serving up a dish of funk in a bass sidestep riff. Before the song dies out completely, the reggae-flavored ballad "By Your Side" steps right in. Funk, and a reggae ballad? This is not a typical Squeeze album. By the chorus of the ballad, Tilbrook actually sounds like Boy George. The lyrics are familiar though, straight from 1982's "Out of Touch."

The "new" lineup includes vocalists Glenn Tilbrook and Chris Difford (principle songwriters and guitarists), drummer Gilson Lavis, keyboardist Jools Holland and bassists Keith Wilkinson.

Tilbrook, Difford and Lavis have been with the band since its beginnings in 1978. Holland, the band's original keyboardist, left the band to pursue a solo career in 1980, and the band has gone through two others since then. Holland's return is welcome to the band, as his flamboyance was sorely missed both live on stage and on records by Squeeze. Wilkinson, the newcomer, was recruited from last year's Difford and Tilbrook duo project put together, after Squeeze had broken up.

Difford's storytelling capabilities are as effective as ever and his new tales are sometimes even more captivating than his earlier efforts. It is best demonstrated in "King George Street:" "She left in the middle of the night with the kids. Wrapped in a blanket with a pocket of crisps," the story begins. Told with a sympathetic view towards the children, the rest of the song keeps one anxious to find out if "Daddy comes home on King George Street."

As is customary with Squeeze albums, Holland is allotted one song from a set of Difford's lyrics. On "Heart-breaking World," he comes up with a winner. Complete with horns and electronic percussion, the funky concoction is whispered by Holland's rich voice. "The saddest thing I've ever seen/was a starving face on my TV screen." As is usual with Difford's lyrics, the song takes a tricky twist from a starving world to a desperate football fan to the chorus, "It's a heartbreaking world if you want it to be. And you're the one who breaks it for me."

The masterpiece on the album is "Last Time Forever," a lovely, 6-minute confession of a once-shy lover who accidentally kills his love in a fit of jealous rage.

It's in this song where the presence of Jools Holland's mastery is really felt. His echoed synthesizer is pierced by the screams of a young woman and then by an overdubbed narrator saying, "A momentary loss of muscular coordination." A baffling statement at first, but it does hint at the accidental murder.

As Holland's mellow organ falls to a sweet background lull, Tilbrook tells the tale. "Did you ever read the words that said love would end? I read them tonight." His confession continues, "It all went wrong when I grew jealous. I didn't realize my strength could take the life of one so precious." The instrumental breaks are highlighted by Holland's eerie piano textures fronted by a jazzed-up blues piano lead.

Holland's past responsibilities with Squeeze and as a solo artist have been to tickle the ivories in his energetic, jazzy style. On Cosi Fan Tutti Frutti, he gets to let loose only a few times, but proves he's still among the most artistic, flavorful keyboardists around.

If there's a negative point to dwell on, it's the misuse of Holland and Lavis. Tilbrook's new songs have ingenious drummer Lavis fooling around with electronic drums and percussion, as well as drum machines, all in steady beats. Squeeze's past quirky rhythms have been funnelled into sometimes-eery minor-key songs with a heavy backbeat. Lavis' outstanding talents have been harnessed from irregular excitement to simple whacking.

There are few bands that have received so much critical acclaim and gotten so little in terms of commercial success as Squeeze. If nothing else is accomplished by this LP, Difford and Tilbrook have found a new formula with which to attempt to gain that ever-elusive commercial popularity.

"We wait without knowing if we're hits of the year," Tilbrook sings in "Hits of the Year," the epitome of this album. Squeeze's new approach with a bit more Jools Holland and an unharnessed Gilson Lavis just might be the answer to the critics' calling for Difford and Tilbrook to be the new Lennon and McCartney team.

FarmAid brings help to the American heartland

By Jim Benson

As the last of the fireworks lit the midnight sky in Champaign, Illinois, a 14-hour celebration came to an end and a campaign began: FarmAid. Billed as "A Concert for America," FarmAid united 55 country and rock acts around the cause of the American farmer.

The assembled acts spanned a broad kaleidoscope of the music spectrum, from L.A.'s underground band, X, hard rockers Bon Jovi and Foreigner, to country greats Merle Haggard and Loretta Lynn.

The concert was organized (in six weeks) by Willie Nelson, Neil Young and John Cougar Mellencamp. It was inspired by Bob Dylan's speech at Live Aid when he suggested giving "a couple of million to the American farmer." Unlike Live Aid, FarmAid raised more consciousness than money this week-end, but awareness is an essential starting point.

"What we really want to change is the attitude of the average American towards their ham and eggs in the morning," said Nelson. "This is just the beginning of the crusade. The idea is to make people aware of the issues, maybe to buy the farmers a little time until long-term answers to their problems can be found."

Of the necessity of the farmer in our society, Charlie Daniels asserted that "If the man don't work, the people don't eat."

The issue is the current crisis facing the American family farm. The U.S. is losing small family farms at the rate of one every 12 minutes, 120 a day. 43,770 farms were lost in 1984 alone. With high interest loans and a bumper crop for 1985, the small farmer is in dire straits. Corn is selling for $2.50 a bushel, yet costs between $4-5 to produce. In 1928 one farmer fed 12 people. Today one farmer feeds 78. FarmAid was started to make the country aware of these problems.

Comparisons between Live Aid and FarmAid have been rampant, but country singer/songwriter David Allan

Coe disagrees. "We're not an extension of Live Aid, we're an American dream come true." At Live Aid, the benefactors were thousands of miles away. At FarmAid, they were in the audience.

The concert was broadcast live by The Nashville Network and was packed with special highlights — a reunion of the Highwaymen: Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings, Johnny Cash and Glen Campbell filling in for Kris Kristofferson; the first live performance of half of the new Van Halen, Sammy Hagar and Eddie Van Halen; Willie Nelson singing with Bob Dylan, Neil Young and John Mellencamp; Billy Joel singing "Everytime You Go Away" with Daryl Hall and Bonnie Raitt — but the artists wanted to talk about the issues and not the music.

"I think this is a move in the right direction," said former Byrd, Roger McGuinn. "The publicity we're generating will have more of an impact than the money."

"At Live Aid we helped feed the people who were starving; it only makes sense to help those who are feeding them. That's why I'm here," said Daryl Hall.

Lead Heartbreaker Tom Petty quipped, "We're here to remind everybody how important it is. I mean, we all eat!"

"Every little donation helps," said John Cougar Mellencamp, "but it's awareness of the issues that counts the most. Many people have no idea that this is one of the greatest economic and sociological issues facing America in the last 50 years. There is a lot of misinformation out there that we hope to set right. For instance, farmers don't want to be bailed out like Chrysler — that's the farthest thing from the truth. They don't need another loan to put them further in debt. They need fair prices for their crops and to stop being used as political footballs."

Like Live Aid, FarmAid has been called another Woodstock of the 80's. Arlo Guthrie, a Woodstock veteran, sang "City of New Orleans" with Willie Nelson on Sunday. He said, "Having these events is better than Woodstock, they're set up to help people. This is better than Woodstock for a whole new generation."

John Fogerty, another Woodstock alumnus, made his first "real" live performance in 12 years on Sunday. "Woodstock was spontaneous and all that went away; this won't," he said.

Carole King, who has been living on a farm for the past eight years, knows the plight of farmers firsthand.

"Although this does feel similar, different people from different backgrounds uniting together. That feels the same, except that I'm twice as old!"

Although the concert's main attraction was the music, no one tried to hide its political overtones. FarmAid sponsors have endorsed the Harkin Farm Policy Reform Bill of 1985. Sponsor of the bill, Senator Tom Harkin of Iowa, was on hand Sunday. He said, "We need a new direction in our farm policy, the old ways don't work anymore. Don't worry, Ronald Reagan will hear the message of FarmAid."

Also on hand were Illinois Governor James Thompson and Nebraska Governor Bob Kerry. Thompson said, "A week from now everyone is not going to forget FarmAid. This is not going to die. Nobody's interested in a country that has all corporation farms."

Neil Young, who spent time in Washington D.C. last week lobbying for the Harkin Bill, said, "I love my family and I think the American family is at stake in this issue. The American heritage and culture is threatened by current agriculture policies. If this bill doesn't pass, the American family farmer is going to die in two years."

The money raised from the concert did not reach its projected goal, but FarmAid will go on. It will continue to help the family farmer, setting up financial hotlines, counseling centers and it will keep the toll free number (1-800-FARMAID), in service for a year.

Also in the works are an album and video of the concert. FarmAid was a concert that started in rain and doubt, yet ended with fireworks, music and hopes of a brighter future for the American farmer.

In the words of Charlie Daniels, "If the man don't work, the people don't eat."

TKE fraternity sponsors benefit softball game

Every once in awhile there comes along a good cause worthy of people's attention, concern, and contribution.

On Wednesday, October 2, at 8 p.m., there will be a softball game on campus between Tau Kappa Epsilon and WNEW-FM. This game is for one of those good causes — the Susan Arms Foundation.

Susan Arms is a remarkable 22-year-old woman who was once a sophomore psychology major at MSC. She suffers from neurofibromatosis, a disease that produces tumors in the nerves, brain and spinal column. The disease has today left her blind and deaf. In her two years at MSC, Susan was a volunteer for the handicapped children at the Psycho-Educational center on campus. Because of her affliction, however, Susan was unable to continue her studies and was forced to take a leave of absence from the college in the fall of 1984.

She is a remarkable person because, despite enduring insufferable pains, and sixteen operations, her determination to continue her college education grows stronger every day. The Essex County Board of Chosen Freeholders cited Susan for her perseverance, and the New Jersey Commission of the Blind and Visually Impaired presented her with an award for "Outstanding Accomplishments." These are only two of several organizations who have recognized Susan Arms for her tremendous will to fight the rare disease.

Susan will soon be undergoing her seventeenth operation in an attempt to improve her current condition, in hope of someday restoring her vision and hearing.

The Inside View Jim Nicosia

The softball game for her benefit was organized and coordinated by Bruno Pavlicek, a student at MSC and an officer from Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. He and TKE are selling tickets at the Bloomfield Brookdale Shop-Rite, Montclair Grocery Stores and the Willowbrook Mall during the last two weekends in September. Their hope is to raise as much money as possible to help Susan and the entire Arms family in their fight against neurofibromatosis. Tickets will also be sold on the day of the game at Quarry Field. The prices of the tickets are $3 for adults and $1 for MSC students with I.D.'s. If you are unable to attend the game, donations will be very much appreciated and can be sent to: Friends of Susan, P.O. Box 1215, Bloomfield, N.J., 07003.

Pavlicek has not only organized and coordinated the event, but he also sent out letters to several newspapers, including The Montclarion, describing the Susan Arms Foundation and promoting the softball game.

I don't know Susan Arms, nor did I know her when she was a student at MSC. The knowledge I have of her remarkable strength and will comes from Mr. Pavlicek, and all the credit for this article goes to him along with the thanks of many people who have been brought to the awareness of this extraordinary young woman, Susan Arms. It did not take much convincing for me to write this column, nor did it take me long to recognize her as a very special person. I plan on attending the game October 2, and I encourage, indeed, urge all of you to go as well. (And if I may make one suggestion — if you can possibly afford it, leave your MSC ID at home and pay the $3. I'm sure it will make you feel three times better.

SILC team competition moves into high gear

By Kim Jones

The idea of a year long team point competition was developed and implemented by SILC. This team competition would begin during the fall semester and continue through spring. It was seen as a means to encourage and enhance team cohesiveness as well as add a new dimension to the competition. SILC would like to offer you this same opportunity to participate in Team Point Competition.

Who May Participate: Any current MSC student, faculty or staff member with a valid MSC I.D. card. Team rosters are composed of a maximum of 35 individuals with a minimum of 15 women and a maximum of 20 men. Teams are formed from this master roster for any SILC recreational activity. There is a $2 registration fee per person which goes towards awards and forfeit fees.

The Point System: Participation in any SILC activity will gain points toward your cumulative team point total. The numerical value for participation will vary depending upon the type of event and the number of participants. Points will be awarded for placing first, second, third or fourth in an event; attending the team captain's meeting; as well as for winning or losing a game. Negative points will be given for forfeits or player ejection. At the conclusion of the spring semester activities, SILC will declare a Team Point Competition team champion for the year 1985-86.

What Is Available: The activities offered by SILC are divided into major activities, individual events and tournament play. These are further divided into men's, women's and co-rec activities. Some events scheduled for the fall semester are men's softball, women's volleyball, co-rec 3-on-3 basketball and a gameroom triathlon. (For a complete listing of the events pick up a brochure from the SILC office, Rm. 418 of the Student Center).

game 8-3 before bouncing back to take the nightcap 5-4. The second game turned out to be the only win MSC would collect all week.

In the opener, the Indians fell behind early, as Monmouth collected two runs on three hits in the very first inning off starter Craig Faber. After two innings, the Monarchs held a 7-1 advantage, to put the game out of reach.

In game two, MSC halted its two-game losing streak as they defeated the Monarchs, 5-4.

Monmouth opened up a 2-0 lead in the first inning, and things looked bleak for MSC when the Monarchs got two more in the third for a 4-0 advantage. That lead held until the MSC sixth, when the Indians came up with all five of their runs.

With one out, Ashton singled, Deutsch walked, and Mike Litterio singled to load the bases. Up stepped John McClain, who delivered a 2-run single. He was followed by a run-scoring single from Tim Jones, and RBI walk from second baseman Steve Dorey, and an Andy Welter RBI sacrifice fly to left field.

Tom Carey picked up the win in relief of John Szabo, pitching four innings, allowing no runs on two hits, while striking out three and walking only one.

Rutgers 14-MSC 6

In the MSC first inning, Jones doubled in Johnson who walked to lead off, for a 1-0 Indian lead, but that would be the only lead they could hold, and it proved to be a short-lived one at that.

In the Rutgers first, a walk, a single, and three consecutive doubles led to a five-run Scarlet Knight outburst that killed MSC's chance for a win.

All-American banquet honors MSC sports greats

By Perry Schwarz

NCAA Division I colleges produce hundreds of All-American athletes each year. Here at MSC we may not have the finances to be a Division I school, but we have also developed more than our share of All-American athletes.

An All-American is someone who has achieved national status in a particular sport he played at his school. Over the past 45 years, 107 students have played a sport at MSC and achieved this status. Presently, two of MSC's All-Americans are playing professional football. Sam Mills, linebacker for the USFL Champion Baltimore Stars, and Mark Casale, quarterback for the Toronto Argonauts (CFL), have both made it to the professional level.

These triumphs of our college athletes sometimes go unrecognized. Until now. Saturday, Sept. 14 the athletic department sponsored a banquet to honor these athletes and their contributions to the school.

The college should be very proud of sponsoring this event. Carol Blazejowski, a former MSC All-American in basketball, made a comment while hosting the festivities.

"The national notoriety of the athletes helped put MSC on the map. Before, people from big colleges never heard of Montclair, and now they know the exit off the turnpike to get here," Blazejowski said.

Carol Blazejowski led MSC into the national spotlight during the mid-seventies

When "The Blaze" played here, the women's team competed on a Division I schedule. This gave "The Blaze" recognition as well as the school. Her collegiate performance enabled her to play on the United States Olympic team.

Colasurdo's late field goal leads MSC to victory

By Perry Schwarz

Tony Colasurdo kicked a 28 yard field goal with 15 seconds left in the game, to give MSC a 20-17 victory over East Stroudsburg University, Saturday night.

The win gives MSC a 1-1 record after their opening game loss to Wagner two weeks ago.

According to Head Coach Rick Giancola the freshman Colasurdo, "responded to the pressure well."

He replaced Joe Perri after Perri's 30 yard field goal attempt was wide in the second quarter. It was only Colasurdo's second time kicking field goals in a game situation.

In the first quarter, MSC's defense held the Warriors to two field goals, as Mike Augustine hit from 20 and 26 yards out. The kicks gave ESU an early 6-0 advantage.

MSC has been playing strong defense at the goal line. Dion Roman, who accumulated ten tackles and one sack versus ESU, was a key man for MSC as they stopped the Warriors deep in Indian territory.

Another key for the defense was the punting performance of Tony Sweet. He put the ball deep in ESU territory most of the game, and had a 37.5 yard average for the night.

The Indians generated an eight play scoring drive in second quarter. Walter Briggs, who passed for 238 yards locked up with Brian Scipio from 23 yards out for the Indians' first score. Colasurdo kicked the extra point to give MSC the lead 7-6.

Both teams scored field goals in the third. Colasurdo hit from the 37 and Augustine connected from 40 yards out. Augustine's kick brought the Warriors within one point, 10-9.

Early in fourth period ESU's Brooks Perkins received some good downfield blocking and flashed 40 yards into the endzone. Joe Rovnan caught the two-point conversion from Ed Meskill to complete ESU scoring for the night.

MSC came back, however, running four plays Amod Field caught a Briggs' touchdown pass. The play was designed for a 15 yard gain. MSC was challenged when the decided to go for the pass on fourth and long. Field, a freshman, was the primary receiver on the play, caught the ball and broke several tackles to get into the endzone. With Colasurdo's kick the score was tied at 17-17.

Credit must be given to Scipio from making a key block downfield so Field could get into the endzone. After 14:45 expired in the fourth, Colasurdo hit the deciding field goal.

MSC was fortunate to win the contest. The Indians totaled 109 yards in penalties and had four turnovers, but they didn't quit.

Leander "the hitman" Knight and Curtis Gaines felt the team stuck together and became one in clutch situations. Good defensive play stopped the Warriors drive on two occasions.

Giancola felt it was a good win, but Kean College (The Indians next opponent) could be tough.

"We shouldn't take them lightly," Giancola said, "Kean is now 3-1 and they have the confidence to compete with us."

On Sunday at Pittser Field, the Indians dropped both ends of a double-header to end their week at 1-4 and drop their season record to 5-5.

Starter Gabe Noto absorbed the loss for the Indians, going five innings and allowing eight runs on eleven hits. The Indians, who were limited to only five hits, and committed three errors in the field, were led by junior shortstop Jim Fasano's 2-for-4 with a walk in the opener.

In game two, Seton Hall opened up an 8-0 lead before MSC could get on the scoreboard. By the time the Indians got their offense in gear, it was a matter of too little, too late, as they fell, 9-6.

MSC put together a three run third inning, highlighted by a Chris Pagano solo home run, back-to-back singles by Fasano and first baseman Mike Ashton, and two-run double by freshman outfielder John Deutsch. In the fourth inning, third baseman Mike Hronich smacked the Indians' second solo home run of the game to close the gap to 8-4. Deutsch closed out the Indians scoring in the last inning, driving in the Indians' sixth run with his second double of the game. Time ran out on the Indians, though, and they saw their fall record dip to 5-5.

Trenton State Invitational gives MSC high hopes

By Tom Branna

The women's cross country team traveled to Trenton for the Trenton State College Invitational Sunday and came home with high hopes for the '85 season.

Though the Indians placed tenth among the 16 competing schools, they finished fifth among Division III competition.

"Everyone ran very well," said Head Coach Michelle Willis. "The time gap between our first and fifth runners was 1:12. What was really encouraging was the fact we could have beaten Trenton State, 27-28, if we were in dual competition."

Nancy Wright led the Indians with a time of 20:26 for the 5,000 meter course (3.2 miles). Wright's time was good enough for twenty-first place, thirteenth versus Division III schools.

"Nancy ran forty-one seconds faster at TSC than she did a year ago," said Willis.

Freshman Linda Gowder finished second for the Indians, with a time of 21:14.

Liz Gonzalez (21:15), Liz Dilla (21:31) and Noreen Cassidy (21:38) rounded out the top five scoring positions for MSC.

Willis was particularly happy with Dilla's performance.

"Liz ran 1:25 faster this year than last year's meet."

Another MSC runner who showed progress was Angela Oglesby. Her time of 26:37 cut last year's time by :23.

The Trenton Invitational was one of the strongest tests for the Indians. The meet featured three Division I schools (Delaware, Temple, LaSalle) and four Division II schools (Mt. St. Mary, Southern Connecticut, Kutztown, Westchester) among the 16-team field.
